

MAYBERRY STATE OF MIND

(R. Lang, D. Mosley)

The boss done called me in on Saturday, Mandatory overtime
He don't care that I have plans today, Away from his assembly line
So I'm slipping out the side door, Of this same ole daily grind
Don't care I get fired today
Cause I am in a Mayberry State of Mind

Sometimes I feel just like another, shiny spoke inside the wheel
Make a tool out of my body, But they don't care 'bout how I feel
All this working and no living, Is not the way I am designed I've just got to get away
Cause I am in a Mayberry State of Mind

Just a simple game of checkers ,Slice of homemade apple pie
Afternoon down by the river, Catching up some fish to fry
Turn the volume down on living, It won't cost you one thin dime
You can join me there today
I'll be in a Mayberry State of Mind

You'll see neighbors helping neighbors, And everybody knows your name
Stopping by just for a visit, And they're always glad you came
What we all need more of, Quiet moments unrefined
A lifetime of days just like today
And a whole world in a Mayberry State of Mind

Just a simple game of checkers ,Slice of homemade apple pie
Afternoon down by the river, Catching up some fish to fry
Turn the volume down on living, It won't cost you one thin dime
You can join me there today
I'll be in a Mayberry State of Mind

Instead of moving forward
Let's take a few steps back in time
You'll find you want to stay
Right there in a Mayberry State of Mind
