

The things that use to bring me joy have faded
The happiness that I once had the darkness has invaded the storms have cast a shadow on my hopes and my dreams
And when my faith starts to waiver
I remember one thing.

God will restore
Everything that's broken
And every trial you've faced a promise has been spoken.
There's an answer
To your problem
The seas will calm into the shore
And God will restore

There has been times where I could only cry
And when I would go to bow my head only tears would fill my eyes
But I know God hears those tears as they fall one by one He'll make a way to prosper me may his will be done

God will restore
Everything that's broken
And every trial you've faced a promise has been spoken.
There's an answer
To your problem
The seas will calm into the shore
And God will restore

Sometimes your boat will crash into the waves
And your life seems like it's overcome with pain
Just remember who's the captain no matter what in life may happen
I know that God will always see you through

Chorus